

SUMMARY

The present invention has for an object the use, as an active ingredient, in or for the preparation of a composition,
5 of at least an efficient amount of a cotton honeydew extract; the extract or the composition being intended for keratin substrates.

The invention also relates to the cosmetic and/or pharmaceutical composition containing the aforementioned 10 extract, as well as a cosmetic process of treatment of the skin using the aforementioned cotton honeydew extract or the composition which contains it.

ABSTRACT

The invention concerns the use, as active principle, in or for preparing a composition, of an efficient amount of at least one extract of cotton honeydew, the extract or the composition being designed for care of keratinous substrates. The invention also concerns a cosmetic and/or pharmaceutical composition containing said extract, and a method for cosmetic treatment of the skin using said cotton honeydew extract or the composition containing same.